

Vogt-Koyanagi-Harada Syndrome

Ahmed Al Amer, LRCPI &SI, MBBCh, BAO, PgDip LHPE* Ahmed Asal, BSc, MD*
Seemantini Ayachit, MBBS, DOMS, PGDM-HM Moemen Al Reefy, MD, FRCSI, FRCOphth

Vogt-Koyanagi-Harada (VKH) syndrome is a rare autoimmune multisystemic disease involving the melanocyte-containing organs; it is a diagnosis of exclusion. The disease is progressive and has undesired complications. We report the first case of VKH syndrome in the Kingdom of Bahrain. The report aims to describe this rare syndrome with more emphasis on the ocular manifestations and management.

* Senior House Officer

 Registrar

 Consultant and Head of Head and Neck Department
Ophthalmology Department
Head and Neck Department
King Hamad University Hospital
Kingdom of Bahrain
E-mail: ahmed.alamer@khuh.org.bh