

Talent in Medicine

The medical profession is not different from other workforce, sharing common interests, hobbies and talents. The majority of these activities are unrelated to medicine. Many are musicians, performers, artists, writers, critics, astronomers, photographers, etc., not to mention their excellence in the world of sports. On the other hand, there are also instances when the practice of these activities takes the form of applied interpretation of what they know in human pathobiology and the concerned function. Thus, some may be historians of clinical practice, clinical pharmacologists of locally used herbs or clinical therapists of locally practiced folk medicine.

This section of the Bahrain Medical Bulletin will be devoted to “Talents in the Medical Profession” to show and exchange with others’ common interests and applied experience. Contributors are therefore welcomed to submit their literary works. This issue contains four of the illustrations featured in the recent publication of King Hamad University Hospital, “Research and Ethics for the Medical Profession”.

The Chief Editor

“Research and Ethics for the Medical Profession” is available on Amazon for purchase.
To purchase the book, please visit: <http://a.co/fodIf6S>

Dr. Manal Alkhalidi, Acting Registrar, Department of Internal Medicine
King Hamad University Hospital
Kingdom of Bahrain
E-mail: manal.alkhalidi@khuh.org.bh