

Medical Quiz

Jameela Mohammed Al-Salman, American Board of Internal Medicine, Infectious Diseases and Geriatrics*

A forty-two-year-old female presented with a six-week history of right neck swelling which has progressed into a boil. There was a history of fever. Look at the figure below and answer the following questions:

Q.1: What is the most likely diagnosis?

Q.2: What are the other cutaneous presentations of this disease?

Answers on page 198

* Consultant
Department of Infectious Diseases and Geriatrics
Salmaniya Medical Complex
P.O. Box 12
Kingdom of Bahrain
E-mail: mms080138@rcsi.com, jsalman@health.gov.bh